

Bond urges reorganization action

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A plan to reorganize state government must be adopted before the budget is approved for the next fiscal year, Gov. Christopher S. Bond said today in his message to legislators in the first day of a special session.

If the reorganization plan is not adopted in the special session, he indicated, there could be budget confusion. According to a constitutional amendment, reorganization must take effect July 1.

The governor also called on the legislature to give him emergency powers to meet the energy crisis, such as authority to set the speed limit at what the president recommends.

In his written message, not delivered in public to a joint session because of renovation of the House chambers, the governor said, "My purpose in calling a special session is to help the General Assembly serve the people. We face very real crises. The success or failure of this session now rests with you, the members of the General Assembly."

The special session, criticized by Democratic leaders in both houses as being unnecessary and too late, began at 2 p.m.

Several legislators, Republicans and Democrats, called for a special session in September or October. The special session can last 60 days, which would run it into the regular session, beginning Jan. 9.

There are three other items on the special session calendar:

—Expanding the merit system, which now covers about half the state's 55,000 employees.

—Strengthening campaign financing laws in time for the primary election next August.

—Reinstating the $5 per person increase in Aid to Dependent Children, which will be superseded by a new law Jan. 1.

In addition, the governor can add anything he wants to during the session.

Legislators have said they had planned to introduce measures to cover all these items in the regular session.

The 162 House members—Ronald Belt of Macon, named a circuit judge, hasn't been replaced—will have nowhere to meet. The large House chamber, ordered renovated when it appeared no special session would be called, won't be ready for use for another week.

Plans were to have the representatives meet briefly in the House lounge, which can accommodate 100 persons at close quarters, and then adjourn for committee meetings the rest of the week.

In the Senate, relations may be strained at the outset because of a state Supreme Court decision Friday saying Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps shall preside over the Senate.

Phelps was ejected last June 15, the last day of the session, by the Senate president pro tempore, Democrat William Cason of Clinton. The 13 Republican senators staged a four-hour boycott.

Phelps, a Republican, says he believes he can assign bills to committee, rule on points of order and recognize speakers. He said he would leave appointment of committees up to the Senate.

Cason said the only thing Phelps can do is to preside, and that he could be overruled on recognition of speakers, according to Senate rules.

Cason said Phelps should not try to "go one inch further" than the Supreme Court decision allows.

In January, three legislative sessions—the regular, special and a veto session—could take place at the same time. Introduction of an expected 1,300 bills began today for the regular session.

There will be three reorganization bills, and possibly four, if the Senate chooses to try and override the governor's veto of reorganization.

In the closing days of the last session, the Senate held off its approval of bills on legislative staffing and increases in the per diem expenses until House leaders agreed to accept the Senate's version of reorganization.

A Republican House member was expected to introduce Bond's reorganization bill, Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, whose bill Bond said he was willing to accept last year, says he will introduce another one. Cason's new bill was to be the first Senate bill filed.

Reorganization must take effect next July 1 according to a 1972 constitutional amendment. There would be problems if a plan were approved the regular session without an emergency clause, which would put it into effect when the governor signs it. Bills become law 90 days after the session ends.

Love and DiBona submit resignations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's chief energy adviser, John A. Love, and his deputy Charles G. DiBona resigned today in anticipation of an official announcement handing the power over energy issues to someone else.

An informed source said Love and DiBona submitted their resignations this morning but that Nixon had not yet accepted them.

At a regular White House news briefing, spokesman Gerald L. Warren said, in answer to questions, that Love was still the chief energy adviser. Warren declined to discuss whether Love is resigning.

Informed sources had revealed last Saturday that the White House planned to establish a new Federal Energy Administration to take over energy emergency programs from the Interior Department and to be headed by deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

The announcement of this shift had been scheduled for 11 a.m. EST today but was postponed at the last minute, and Warren said it might come on Tuesday.

Warren said the delay was caused only by the need to work out further details of the organizational shift.

Simon earlier challenged suggestions that his impending appointment lessens the chance of gasoline rationing.

"That isn't so," Simon responded quickly when asked in an interview whether that is what his appointment means. "I don't rule out rationing. I don't rule out anything."

Simon, 46, said the new agency would begin quickly to try to come up with new federal programs for tackling the fuel shortage.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., ranking Republican on the Senate Government Operations Committee, said hearings on the new agency would be held Thursday.

Simon had been one of the principals in an administration policy struggle over whether formal rationing of short supplies or a stiff gasoline tax is the best government response to the fuel shortage.

While White House energy adviser John A. Love and Love's deputies were saying gasoline rationing probably couldn't be avoided because of the Arab oil cutoff, Simon was pushing for a strong mandatory allocation program of supplies, mandatory conservation programs and perhaps a gasoline tax, with rationing only a last resort.

Love, a former governor of Colorado, will remain as a presidential assistant, but his new role is unclear, a spokesman said.

In a nationally broadcast speech Sunday night, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., contended that Nixon's energy proposals were not enough to prevent severe fuel shortages, loss of jobs and cold homes this winter.

Issuing the Democrats' official response to the Nixon program, Proxmire said fuel rationing was necessary, although he called it "so bad that I would want to get rid of it as soon as we possibly can."

Another congressional Democrat, Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, said he thought the fuel shortage was "just for the short run" and was caused solely by the Arab oil cutoff. "I doubt rationing would do the trick," he told interviewers on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation."

Sanders' report was echoed by police and American Automobile Association officials in states across the country. In Georgia, the manager of a Stuckey's gas station-restaurant said Interstate 75 — the main route to Florida — "looked like a desert road."

In Milwaukee, Wis., officials blamed the shutdown in part for the number of ticket holders who failed to show up for the Green Bay Packers-New Orleans Saints football game. There were 1,798 "no-shows" Sunday, compared to 682 the last game.

The search for gas took some motorists long distances. At the H.G. Willis Phillips 66 in Memphis, Tenn. — where a sign proclaimed "Be Thrifty. Drive 50 So Nixon Can Fly" — one driver reported he had traveled 150 miles before finding an open station.

As in other cities, police in St. Paul, Minn., reported numerous telephone calls from panicky motorists with near-empty gas tanks.

"I wish I knew what to tell them," said a dispatcher. "I need gas in my own car."

Traffic light on gasless Sunday

By JIM WILLSE
Associated Press Writer

"Sorry, No Gas," read the sign at Sylvester Williams' Chevron station in Los Angeles.

"I'm going along with the program," said Williams, who kept his station open on Gasless Sunday to do repair work and rent trailers. "They still come in and say, 'I need some,' but I won't pump any gas."

Williams was among the majority of the nation's estimated 220,000 gasoline dealers who closed their pumps or entire stations Sunday a week after President Nixon called for a voluntary step to help ease the fuel shortage.

In response, thousands of American motorists apparently gave up plans for Sunday drives, leaving those who didn't to seek out fuel at the relatively few service stations still selling it.

"I've never seen it so light," Al Sanders, a Wisconsin State Patrol dispatcher, said of the traffic situation. He said a counting device on Interstate 90 near Madison ticked off about 200 cars an hour during the afternoon — compared to the 1,000-1,200 averaged on previous Sundays.

Nixon income tax disclosure planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House will formally disclose this week that President Nixon paid less than $6,000 in federal income taxes during the past three years, sources report.

Confidential documents now under preparation also list Nixon as paying more than $72,000 in federal income taxes in the first year of his presidency — before he obtained a substantial tax deduction for donation of his vice presidential papers to the government.

The documents show he paid $38,646 in federal taxes soon after he took office on his 1968 income as a lawyer. And they disclose that $30,916 was withheld from his paycheck in the first five months of this year for his 1973 taxes.

Nixon's salary as President is $200,000 a year. He also receives a tax-free $50,000 annual expense allowance, and records disclose he has made substantial profits on real estate transactions since taking office.

The information is contained in a series of statements and documents scheduled to be sent members of Congress this week and then released publicly as part of the White House effort to disprove allegations about the President's personal finances.

Coupled with release of the financial data will be disclosure that Nixon and his wife will give their San Clemente, Calif., estate to the federal government upon their deaths.

Presidential associates said the First Family decided some time ago to eventually transfer the public use the property valued at an estimated $500,000, following a precedent set by previous Presidents.

Documents examined by The Associated Press gave this breakdown on his federal income taxes:

1969 — $72,686.
1970 — $789.
1971 — $878.
1972 — $4,298.

The documents indicate that soon after taking office in 1969 Nixon also paid $7,351 in New York State income taxes for his 1968 earnings as a Manhattan lawyer. Since then, they indicate he has paid no state or local taxes.

Although California is his voting residence, sources said Nixon's tax accountants obtained an outside legal opinion that for tax purposes his residence is the District of Columbia — and that District law exempts presidents from local income taxes.

Senate filibuster blocks finance plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats pushing for a plan for publicly financed presidential campaigns will try again to cut off a Senate filibuster and force a vote on it and a linked bill to raise the federal debt ceiling.

Supporters of public financing, realizing the chances are scant that the package will get out of the Congress intact, are accusing President Nixon of sabotaging it.

They planned another attempt at passage today.

The charge against Nixon came as the Senate met in an extraordinary Sunday session — the first time in 112 years — but failed to break the impasse that has left the federal debt $63 billion above its legal limit.

A move by backers of the election-reform measure to shut off debate and force action fell seven votes short of mustering the two-thirds needed. The vote was 47 to 43 for cloture.

The measure would require 1976 presidential nominees to finance their campaigns from the fund to be created by a checkoff plan, under which taxpayers can earmark $2 of their income taxes for the campaign. It sets a spending limit of $21 million for general election campaigns.

For primaries, it establishes a matching system whereby candidates who raise at least $100,000 initially could get up to $7 million to match what they raise privately.

Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., the leading Senate opponent, termed it a "half-baked concoction" that will "enable political candidates to raid the U.S. Treasury."

For the most part, Allen declared, it is a "demand for a federal handout to some one score or more presidential hopefuls ... including eight or 10 U.S. senators."

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., charged that "the real opponent to cloture and to cleaning up American politics is not Jim Allen but Richard Nixon."

He said the President wants the Senate "to disregard the lesson of Watergate" and kill the public financing measure without his having to veto it.

The campaign financing issue has held up passage of the bill that would have increased the legitimate debt ceiling for the country to $475 billion through June 30, 1974. As of midnight Friday, the legal debt limit dropped to $400 billion, although the actual debt is about $463 billion.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the bill, said it will be "a test of nerves starting about Wednesday when the government employees don't receive their paychecks."

that the reports of Kissinger's plans for a Syrian visit were significant because the United States has had no formal diplomatic relations with Damascus since 1967. It was generally believed the Syrians refused to see him during his November tour.

The Syrians have taken a harder line than Egypt toward the proposed peace negotiations with Israel, tentatively scheduled to open in Geneva on Dec. 18.

They have refused to exchange war prisoners with Israel and have continued in public to insist that full Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab lands is the only solution to the Middle East stalemate.

The Syrians have accepted the cease-fire but have given no public announcement they are prepared to attend the Geneva talks. The Arab diplomats said, however, that President Hafez Assad already is picking a delegation in private.

The informants gave no specific dates for the new Kissinger trip, which had been widely expected in Washington.

State bills prefiled

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to reinstate the death penalty for premeditated murder was prefiled today by Rep. Bob F. Griffin, C-Cameron.

The death penalty was a major issue in the last legislative session, but was killed in the last minutes of Senate debate June 15.

Prefiling began today for the 1974 session beginning Jan. 9. Bills can be introduced until 60 days have elapsed in the session. About 1,300 bills are expected to be introduced.

Crimes that would be punished by death under Griffin's bill are:

—Murders committed by arsonists, rapists, robbers, burglars, kidnapers and persons guilty of molesting a child under 13.

—Murders committed under contract.
—Murder of a peace officer on duty.
—Murder committed by felons in prison.

—Murder of more than one person.
—Murders of witnesses who have testified against the killer.

—Murder by a person avoiding arrest.
—Murder during the hijacking of commercial airplanes.

—Murder by a person who has been convicted of first or second degree murder.
—Murder of any elected state or federal official.

—Murder committed by a mental patient against any on-duty employee of a mental hospital.

In the Senate, Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton, introduced a 51-page reorganization bill and bills to repeal the personal property tax on household goods, to control campaign spending and to allow persons to have $1 of their state tax money go to the political party of their choice in a checkoff system.

The campaign spending bill would require reporting of all contributions over $200, not just those received 90 days before an election, and would require disclosure of contributions and expenses 12 days prior to an election.

Another bill by Cason would set up a separate Missouri Bureau of Investigation, giving local authorities the right to request its services.

Other bills introduced would:

—License and regulate physical therapists.

—License and regulate medical laboratories.

—Have mobile homes permanently attached on property be taxed as real property and those not permanently located as intangible property.

—Provide for regulation of savings and loan associations with capital stock, calling them stock associations.

—Allow trained assistants of physicians to perform certain services, under the control of the physicians.

—Raise the interest rate for banks under the Federal Reserve System from 8 to 10 per cent.

—Regulate use of pesticides.

—Make it a misdemeanor to illegally open a fireplug.

—Provide two circuit judges for the 20th Judicial Circuit of Franklin, Gasconade and Osage counties.

—Allow liquor by the drink to be sold at "resorts," removing the requirement they be in lake areas with 250 miles of shoreline, but requiring them to have overnight accommodations for 40 persons, do $100,000 business a year and have 60 per cent of receipts be in food service.

—Have the revenue department fee offices be operated not only by the state, but by cities or counties which wish to operate them.

—Provide for continuing public easement of property for telephone poles and lines even on government-owned land which is sold.

—Have the unexpended balance of grade-crossing fund money accumulate each year rather than have it go back into the general fund.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with concession stands and restaurants. On a recent trip from Oklahoma to California and back I was amazed that practically none of these places sold diet drinks. These days so many people are on sugarless diets and are forced to settle for coffee or cheat on the diet. What a help for those of us on such diets to be able to find eating places equipped for our needs. — GRETE

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J. G. wanted to know what she could do with an accumulation of two-inch insulin bottles. I find they make lovely tiny vases for hospital patients or just anyone. Real violets can be put in them in season. These tiny vases take up little space and are attractive. — BUENA

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J. G. could make Christmas tree ornaments with her many two-inch insulin bottles. Decorate them with glitter and ribbons. Ann Landers

eats, goes berserk

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an average housewife, 30 years old with two darling little girls and a nice hard-working husband. We are expecting another child in 8 weeks.

This morning my father came over with a beautiful present for us, a lovely 3 1/2-pound roast. I decided to prepare it in advance and serve it for dinner tonight. I was really excited because we haven't had any beef for quite a while.

At 4 p.m. the roast was finished so I took it out of the oven and put it on the sideboard. It looked so tempting I decided to take a little taste to see if the seasoning was right. Well, Ann, I can't explain what happened to me but it's like I went berserk. I couldn't stop eating. I ate the whole roast. Afterwards I felt so guilty I nearly cried. I felt like a rat when I was preparing the substitute dinner, a tuna casserole with noodles. I was so ashamed of myself I just couldn't tell my husband what happened.

Will you please tell me why I did such a rotten thing? It might help if I understood. — A Texas Glutton

Dear Tex: Sometimes pregnant women develop a sudden passion for a food they haven't had in a long time. Then they become compulsive about devouring large quantities of it. They just can't stop eating. This is probably what happened to you.

Don't prepare any more roasts "in advance" until your baby is born.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a tardy but relevant response to that Canadian reader who was fed up with Americans who don't know one thing about Canada. (He said "the further south I went the more ignorant U.S. citizens are.") Please tell our neighbor to the north to think nothing of it. I live in the Pacific Northwest and you wouldn't believe the things New Yorkers, Texans and Iowans have said to me. Here are some examples:

"You have electricity and plumbing! Isn't that wonderful! How long have you had it?"

"We brought our fur coats and parkas (it was June) because we didn't think you had any summer this far north! The weather is beautiful! How come?"

"Do the Indians give you much trouble?"

So please be aware, Miss Landers, that ignorance is not a matter of geography. There are plenty of Americans who don't know anything about their own country, much less Canada. What's more, all the ignoramus aren't in the South. — Pacific Northwest Revisited

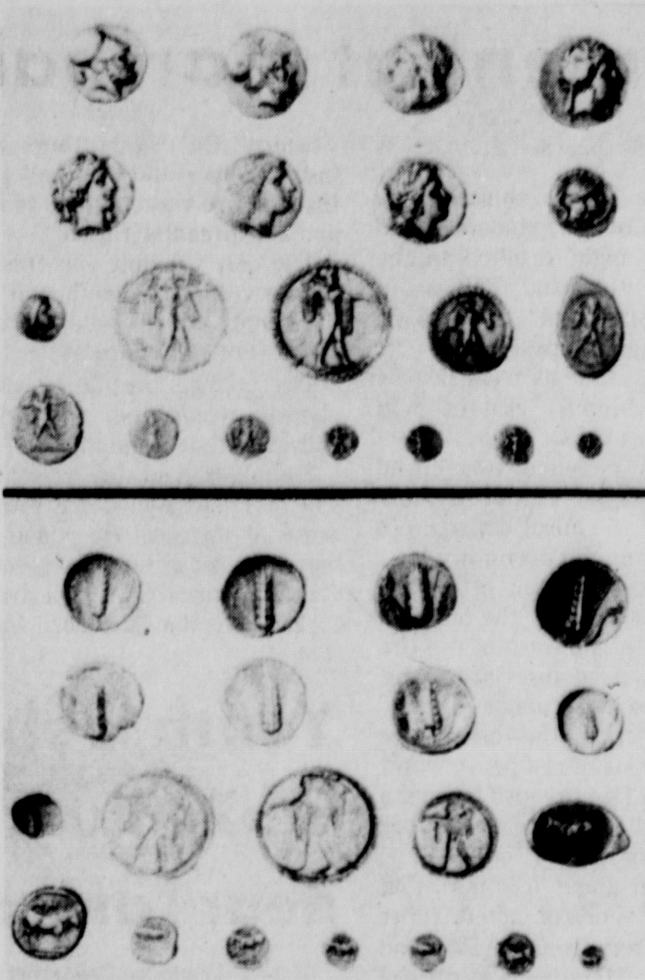

Dear P.N.: Well said. I agree.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a security guard in the Kansas City airport and I have a message for everyone who travels by plane. Please don't bring gift-wrapped packages aboard, or boxes that are taped shut or tied with knotted strings or ribbons. We have to tear off the gift-wrappings and cut the ribbons and strings.

A lot of folks get mad at us. They act as if we do it to be ornery, but we must inspect every package because those are the rules. Furthermore, we do it for their protection. We want to provide them with as much safety as possible. After all, THEY are going to board the plane, we aren't going anywhere. — Trying To Perform A Service.

Dear Trying: As one who travels extensively I thank you for your dedication and for your letter. I appreciate both.

CIUDAD REAL, Spain (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco and Portugal's president, Adv. Americo Thomas, ended two days of partridge shooting in an estate near the village of Santa Cruz de Mudela, in this province south of Madrid.

The two heads of state and their parties downed a total of 1,100 partridges during the weekend hunt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, spending a rare weekend at home in the White House, had dinner at the home of his daughter, Mrs. David Eisenhower, in nearby Bethesda, Md.

After putting in a day's work at his office Saturday, Nixon and his wife, Pat, drove off in late afternoon to the home of the young Eisenhowers, where they were dinner guests.

It was the fifth weekend this year that Nixon has spent in the White House. On most other weekends, he has been away at his homes in Florida and California or at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

Professor proposes new state boundaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California professor thinks the borders of the 48 contiguous states are badly drawn and proposes instead a country of 38 brand new states.

G. Etzel Percy, a geography professor at California State University, Los Angeles, estimates that the savings in the cost of state government alone would amount to $4.6 billion yearly — about $100 for each citizen.

A lot of popular song titles would have to be changed: "Stars Fell on Talladega," "El Dorado, Here I Come," "Carry Me Back to Old Chesapeake," "My Old Cumberland Home," "Back Home Again in Wabash," "Deep in the Heart of Alamo."

As an article in the current issue of The Smithsonian magazine notes, the odds are against the idea even though it is logical.

"To begin with," it says, there would be so much hot air from politicians of all parties that the entire climate would be threatened. The chief obstacle to such schemes is that people just don't like change."

Percy has outlined his plan in a book, "A Thirty-Eight State U.S.A.," published by Plycon Press and summarized in the Smithsonian article. The 38 new states would be much more nearly the same size as it is now. Alaska is 483 times bigger than Rhode Island.

Many state boundaries were set up along rivers; others used such arbitrary boundaries as lines of latitude and longitude. Thus in many cases logical areas of community interest were ignored, Percy says.

His plan would include major metropolitan areas within one state. For example, his new state of Hudson would comprise part of New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and southern New York, with New York City in its center. Chicago would be in the middle of the new state of Dearborn.

Alaska would be divided into Seward and Kodiak; Hawaii's borders would remain unchanged but arbitrarily it would be renamed Kilauea. The new names were chosen with the help of a poll of geography students. The only present ones retained, and in revised form, would be Carolina and Dakota.

Percy figures the saving in state government costs would be possible because about 25 per cent of such costs are fixed, regardless of a state's size or population. Reducing the total would thus reduce the over-all cost.

Despite the natural resistance to change, the Smithsonian says, things are changing — direct telephone dialing, probably a switch to the metric system and a cashless society. Perhaps the map could be redrawn at the same time, the article says, adding:

"For a brief period, everyone would be utterly confused about everything and then, one hopes, we would emerge all at once into a new era of efficiency and abiding clarity."

Decreased balloting for ASCS expected

The total number of ballots to determine the Pettis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee for the coming year will "probably be somewhat down from last year's total of some 700," county ASCS office manager Dick Dalton said Monday.

Dalton estimated that between 500 and 600 ballots will be tabulated this week, with the winners to be announced Friday.

Dalton said results will not be announced until Friday because ballots from the east coast, postmarked by Monday, will not arrive in the local office until at least Wednesday. The ballots will then be officially tabulated, certified and approved before the winner's names are announced, he said.

Students save musical equipment at Marshall

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Quick thinking by Missouri Valley College students and personnel Saturday night resulted in the saving of several thousand dollars of musical equipment from a burning building on the college campus here.

Prompt action by students from nearby residence halls, campus visitors and maintenance workers saved the instruments, which included two grand pianos, from 70-year-old Campbell Hall. The building housed the music department and was initially a women's dormitory.

Dr. W. L. Tompkins, president of the 620-student college, said Monday the building was still standing. He said most of the fire damage was confined to the third floor, where the fire started in a practice room.

Tompkins added that the other two floors and basement sustained heavy water and smoke damage. The fire also burned a hole in the roof. No damage estimate has been made. Tompkins said.

The fire broke out about 7:30 p.m. and was brought under control about three hours later. Firefighters from Marshall and the state school by Marshall battled the blaze. Tompkins said insurance investigators were due to arrive on the campus Monday to determine the amount of damage.

Tompkins said the volunteers who rescued the equipment were not under any danger. He said they realized the instruments could be saved when they saw that the fire was confined to the third floor and not spreading rapidly.

The only valuable contents not removed by the volunteers were two pianos in the basement, which were standing in about two feet of water Sunday.

The college president said that music classes would be transferred to the college's student union and other buildings.

Tompkins said the state fire marshal and Marshall police are investigating the cause of the fire. He added that the fire may have been deliberately set.

Last February fire destroyed Stewart Chapel on the Missouri Valley College campus.

Youth is shot while hunting near LaMonte

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LaMONTE — An 18-year-old youth from Sweden was accidentally shot in the neck late Sunday afternoon while hunting near LaMonte, Pettis County Deputy Sheriff Donald Stratton said Monday.

Thomas Lennart Colmodin, who was living in Muscatine, Iowa, and visiting friends in Sedalia, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday afternoon at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia.

Stratton said the accident occurred when Bjorn Holger Warnberg, also of Sweden and living in Muscatine, Iowa, was checking his 22 caliber pump rifle when the rifle accidentally went off, striking Colmodin in the right side of the neck below the ear lobe. The bullet exited through the left jaw.

The two were hunting for raccoons on the Delmar L. Fisher farm on Route 1, LaMonte, with Fisher and Riley Kindel, rural LaMonte, Stratton said.

Colmodin was taken to Bothwell Hospital and later transferred to the Columbia hospital.

The two Swedish youths are in Muscatine attending a school on tire recapping sponsored by the Bandag Co., said a spokesman for Sedalia Bandag, near north Grand and Highway 65.

Testimony on murder case motions Tuesday

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — Three members of the West-central Missouri Major Case Squad that investigated the Aug. 13 murder of Mrs. Karen Jones are scheduled to testify on two motions to be heard in Boone County Circuit Court here at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Prosecuting Attorney said Monday.

Boone County Circuit Court Judge John Cave will preside at the hearing on the motions filed by Adam Fischer, attorney for Kim Eugene Phillips, the accused murderer of Mrs. Jones. Phillips is charged with second-degree murder.

Scheduled to appear, Fleming said, are Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, State Highway Patrol Corporal M. D. Buesing and James Donley, Lafayette County sheriff's officer.

One of the motions filed by Fischer seeks to suppress information filed by the state in the case and the other asks the court to declare that a confession allegedly obtained from Phillips was done so illegally.

All three law enforcement officers were involved in obtaining the alleged confession from Phillips, Fleming said.

Fleming said the hearing could last until late Tuesday afternoon.

Vending tax amendment is expected

The presentation of a proposed amendment to the city vending machine tax ordinance, by City Counselor Robert Fritz, is expected to highlight activities at the City Council meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Municipal Building chambers.

Fritz was authorized to prepare and submit the revision following discussion of the matter at a special council meeting Thursday. At that meeting, it was agreed that the law be altered to eliminate what many local businessmen considered it's double-taxation properties.

Council members Thursday night unofficially approved a formula stipulating that businesses using vending machines to sell their product would not be required to pay an additional tax for each machine in addition to the basic business license.

Vending machine companies, dealing exclusively with selling or otherwise controlling vending machines, would pay a merchants license tax based on the number of machines operated, rather than be taxed for each machine individually.

Businesses earning profits from the vending machines on their property would include these receipts in figuring their basic business license tax.

In other activity the council is expected to vote tonight on a zoning request by Wilmont Caulter, 1701 West Ninth and Earl Thomas, 633 East Ninth. The two men are seeking to rezone property located at Ninth and Warren from R-1 (single family dwelling) to C-1 (local business). A business office will reportedly be building on the spot if the zoning is approved.

Over $1,700 is raised for hospital beds

Over two-thirds of the $1,500 goal of the Bothwell Hospital Ladies Auxiliary's telethon was raised Saturday night, according to Mrs. Betty Tagtmeyer, chairman of the public relations committee.

The telethon, the first to originate in Sedalia, according to Mrs. Tagtmeyer, was broadcast on CATV Channel 2. The telecast originated from the Community Church, Sixth and Osage.

Mrs. Tagtmeyer said the auxiliary was "very happy with the response" the telethon received. She said about 500 spectators came to the telecast site during the seven-hour program.

Final figures on the proceeds, which will be used to buy special stretcher beds for Bothwell's emergency room, have not been tabulated, Mrs. Tagtmeyer said. She reported that the funds received totaled about $1,100 and that three more checks were received in the mail Monday morning.

The beds, which cost $750 each, enable accident victims to be transported from an ambulance to the X-ray room and to surgery without transferring the victims to other beds.

Course on safety and health planned

The program is designed to supply information on such topics as accident investigation procedures, safety program evaluation, setting up of safety and health programs, and others.

The program, which is free, is part of an agreement between National Safety Council and OSHA to train more than 100,000 persons through selected local safety councils.

Police probe arson attempt at Jockey Club

Police are investigating an apparent arson attempt at the Jockey Club, 2209 South Limit, shortly after 10 p.m. Saturday.

Linville Eberting, 2500 Wing, owner of the club, told police that he smelled gas and, upon investigating, discovered a small fire at the rear of the business. The fire was extinguished by the time firemen arrived and little damage resulted.

According to the police report, a beer bottle filled with gasoline was thrown against the rear of the building, causing the fire.

A burning cigarette was the apparent cause of an automobile fire that caused an estimated $300 damage to a 1966 Chevrolet, belonging to Elaine Hesse, 807 West Seventh, at 7:46 a.m. Sunday.

The fire report indicated that the blaze was contained to the front seat portion of the vehicle.

In other police news, Wanda Green, 625 West Sixth, told police that a 17-jewel watch of undetermined value was taken from the Pacific Cafe, 202 West Main, sometime during the afternoon of Nov. 28.

Mrs. Green told police that she removed the watch to clean a refrigerator in the cafe and left it while she went to purchase cleaning supplies. She later discovered the watch missing.

Markey Van Dyke, 2522 Southwest Blvd., reported to police the theft of a checkbook while she was watching the Christmas parade Saturday morning.

Mrs. Van Dyke said the checkbook was in her coat pocket, which was buttoned, while watching the parade. When she later looked for the checkbook, she found her pocket unbuttoned and the checkbook missing.

Former pro football player made record only for fun

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — About four weeks ago, during ABC's

"NFL Monday Night Football," they played a record called "Travellin' Man." Don Meredith was seen to wince, even though the singing wasn't half bad.

In fact, the singer was Meredith. And because of the response from the TV audience, Dot Records says it's reissuing Meredith's record and already has mailed 2,000 copies to radio stations.

Dandy Don admits to being a bit surprised both by the company's action and the fan reaction to a recording he made back in the early 1960s with a country and Western band in Dallas, Tex.

"I really didn't cut it to try and sell it," said Meredith, who was the Dallas Cowboys' quarterback at the time. "It was just one of those things I wanted to do, and so we did it and it was kinda fun."

For the record, the reverse side of the proceedings has him singing, "Them That Ain't Got It Can't Lose."

What prompted him to cut the record?

"Well, ah, that really is a good question," he said. "It sort of started in a beer joint—actually a pretty nice place, called the Reveler in Dallas."

"They played country music and I used to go over there. I always liked country music, so I started foolin' around with it."

And at certain times of the evening it seemed I would migrate towards the stage. It was one of those things."

It came to pass that he and his friends in the band got the idea to pop in a Dallas recording studio and record. "We just decided one day, 'Heck, we'll do it,'" Meredith said.

The recording got fairly good air play on Dallas stations, he said, and then Dot Records got hold of it in some way he still doesn't understand.

"I never made a whole lot off it," he allowed. "I got a $2.54 royalty check one year and I think that was my biggest year. The thing didn't, ah, quite take off."

He said he had no idea at the time—nor does he now—of carving out a second career as a country singer.

"I'm under no illusion that I can sing," he said. "It's a frustration because I'd really love to be able to do it well. But the guys in the band had to teach me everything."

"I didn't even know about modulation," he said, referring to a key change in a song. "Heck, I always thought modulation was something nasty you do."

He said although record executives have talked to his lawyer about resuming his vocalizing, he'd only do it if it wasn't for serious, if he had a choice of songs and musicians and if it'd be fun.

"I don't want any money," he said. "But I want enough to bring my friends to Nashville and pay their expenses and we'll have a party down there for about a week."

Meredith, whose music favorites—and friends—include Roger Miller, Willie Nelson and Kris Kristofferson, was asked who gave ABC the record they played during the football telecast.

"I don't know and they won't tell me," said the 35-year-old pride and joy of Mount Vernon, Tex. He was then asked what he'd do if he finds the rascal.

"Well, I don't really know," mused Dandy Don. "I guess I'm gonna sit and talk to him for a while."

Last king of cattle empire dead

COPAN, Okla. (AP) — The last of the men who reigned over the Mullendore cattle empire is dead.

E. C. "Gene" Mullendore Jr., whose father built an 80,000-acre ranch in northern Oklahoma and southern Kansas, died Sunday night in a Houston, Tex., hospital. He was 70.

Mullendore was admitted to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital Oct. 3 and underwent surgery for an infected heel, said attorney Joe R. Jarboe, a friend of the family.

"In the past week he had other complications," Jarboe said. "He was diabetic, and this past week his leg was amputated above the knee. He had a problem with his bladder and his vision was slight."

Mullendore is survived by his widow, Kathleen, a daughter, Mrs. John Whitefield Mecum Jr., three sisters and eight grandchildren.

Services were pending with Arnold Moore Funeral Home of Bartlesville.

Mullendore's father died in 1939 and turned over 80,000 acres of land to Gene.

Gene Mullendore turned over active management of the holdings to his son, E. C. Mullendore III, about 1960 because of failing sight.

Young Mullendore was shot to death Sept. 26, 1970, in an unsolved murder.

Months later, court documents filed by the Mullendores listed debts of more than $11 million.

The ranch holdings were reduced considerably when receivers for the property settled the accounts.

Task force set up for probe of 'goldbricks'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A four-man investigative task force has been set up to probe allegations of poor working practices among field personnel in the health division here.

Mayor John H. Poelker took the action over the weekend following a series of published reports that field inspectors in several agencies of the division were using working hours for personal business and were leaving work before the prescribed time.

"Based on what we know as a result of the preliminary investigation conducted by the health division, it appears that there may have been serious lapses in employees' conduct," Poelker said, "and this task force will take the necessary steps to prove these violations of work regulations."

Members of the task force are Jack Webber, city budget director; Robert Terry, assistant training coordinator of the Department of Personnel; Dick McGee, the mayor's administrative assistant; and Gwn Giles, commissioner of the Council on Human Relations.

Canoeists drown during cave probe

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two canoeists drowned Sunday afternoon while exploring a water-filled cave near Columbia.

Authorities identified the victims as Robert Strader, 28, Columbia, and David Cook Jr., 19, St. Louis, whose canoe capsized.

Investigators said the two young men were part of a group of about 20 explorers.

Mideast peace is key to oil flow

WASHINGTON — Some things arouse so much emotion they often go unsaid, especially when people are already irritable at the thought of gasoline shortages, cold houses, stock losses, growing unemployment.

Rowan

But the industrialist's wife was coldly blunt in speaking to me: "We never donated a dollar to a bond for Israel, or anything else for Israel, in 25 years. Why should we be forced now to lose millions through disruptions in my husband's enterprises just so our government can go on supporting Israel?"

That woman wants the United States to say what Japan and much of Western Europe seem ready to say: that they will abandon Israel to avert an energy crisis which could wreck their economies just as devastatingly as if some enemy dropped a thousand bombs.

There is no reason to believe the United States will toss Israel to the wolves in exchange for Arab oil; in fact, inflammatory talk of "Arab blackmail" has angered many Americans to the point that they will endure a level of austerity they never dreamed imaginable.

The stock market is plummeting. The automobile industry is hurting. The plastics industry is near panic. The airlines have begun to scream. Soon it may be difficult to find toys, nylon stockings, phonograph records, paints and a thousand other commodities with petroleum bases in our stores.

Look for a lot of people to start saying aloud what that industrialist's wife grumbled to me: that the price is too high, so we must resort to a more evenhanded policy in the Middle East.

They will be countered, angrily, by those who argue that we must not "appease Arab blackmailers," that we cannot in good conscience abandon 3 million Israelis to Arab slaughter.

However the passions may flow, the inescapable truth is that any real easing of the energy crisis for the U.S., Western Europe or Japan is inextricably tied to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

We hear some irresponsible talk of Europe or the United States sending in troops to take the Arabs' oil. Out of the White House comes pie-in-the-sky talk of the U.S. reaching a point of "self-sufficiency" in energy by 1980 where we won't have to rely on any other country.

But the practical way to ease our energy crisis lies in diplomacy — lies in dealing with the Arabs, with Venezuela, Iran, Nigeria, Indonesia and all oil-producing countries on a basis of mutual respect and fairness. On this crazy, shrinking planet we are all interdependent, and neither Washington nor Riyadh, Cairo nor Tel Aviv can afford to forget it.

I believe firmly that Israel has a right to secure survival as a state. But I also believe that a fair arrangement must be made for the Palestine refugees, and that Israel can never be secure unless she gives up territories taken in previous battles.

Israel's previous glaring military superiority created an arrogance which left her unwilling to compromise on much that mattered.

The recent war has shown that the military imbalance has been closed drastically. Israel's shocking casualties, the damage to her economy, make real, for the first time, the threat of Arab wars of attrition.

But if this has made the Israelis less cocky, has it also turned some Arabs into foolish blusters? Are the Arabs now so heady with their small military successes, so giddy over their ability to use oil as a political lever, that they have become unwilling to make just compromises? Are they or are they not willing to accept and guarantee Israel's continued existence as a state?

Strip all the hysterical rhetoric about the energy crisis aside. The real challenge is to get our country into a posture where we do not face such absurd choices as either abandoning Israel or pushing the Arabs and their oil into the Kremlin stockpile.

The sooner our leaders deal with that challenge, the sooner we shall be free of rancorous, corrosive debate over the cost of supporting Israel, or over who is really sacrificing and who is profiteering from the energy crisis.

A conservative view

Mad tea parties at FTC

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The reporter who covers Washington comes off his beat now and then with the dreamy feeling that he has spent his day in Alice's Wonderland. In the rabbit warrens of the federal bureaucracy, nothing is so foolish that it cannot be viewed with solemnity. And no fantasies are more soberly looney than the tea parties of the Federal Trade Commission.

Kilpatrick

In support of that thesis, one might offer the FTC's Docket No. 8839, known as the Hi-C Case. Hi-C is not, as you might suppose, a note beloved of mezzo sopranos. It is a fruit-flavored drink, manufactured by the Coca-Cola Company and sold in 10 delicious flavors.

In January of 1969, the makers of Hi-C launched upon a 26-month advertising campaign through newspapers, magazines, and TV commercials. In April of 1971, six weeks after the campaign ended, counsel for the FTC filed a formal complaint charging the company with unfair and deceptive acts. The charges came up for hearing in 1972 before Administrative Law Judge William K. Jackson. Twenty witnesses testified over a period of 18 days. The record ran to more than 1,700 pages.

What was involved in this monumental litigation? You would not believe it. You would not believe it in 10,000 years. The whole might, majesty and sovereign authority of the most powerful government on earth were brought to bear on the makers of Hi-C because they dared to advertise their product as — brace yourself — as "the sensible drink." The makers said it was "high" in vitamin C. Zounds!

There were other allegations, to be sure, such as the charge that it was unfair and deceptive to say in the ads that children "can drink as much as they like." These other charges were not insistently pressed. In the humpty-dumpty world of the FTC, the key words were "sensible" and "High." What could they possibly mean?

To these towering questions of semantics, all the arts of philology were brought to bear. The "declarative adjectives," as they were termed in the hearings, were examined for connotation, denotation, acceptance, and import. Hours were passed in reflection upon the "ambiance" of the offending commercials. It was observed that Hi-C was described in the ads as "the" sensible drink, and argument was heard upon whether the restrictive article adjective was meant to imply that Hi-C was the sole or only sensible drink.

At some point in time, as we say in Washington, a preliminary conclusion was reached that "sensible" was intended to mean either "sensible economically" or "sensible nutritionally," or quite possibly, both. Learned witnesses testified that while Hi-C, at $0.0382 for every 40 milligrams of vitamin C, is indeed more expensive than frozen orange juice at $0.0244, it is on a par with frozen grapefruit juice at $0.0383. As for nutrition, it was demonstrated that at the time the ads appeared, each six-ounce can of Hi-C contained 110 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C for children between 2 and 12. Hi-C was therefore ruled sensible.

The same mad deliberations were devoted to "High." How high was high? It was perceived that the makers had not advertised Hi-C as the "highest" in vitamin C, or as the "most high," but merely as "high," which means "elevated" or "placement at a conspicuous height above some standard level." The evidence failed to establish deception. Judge Jackson therefore acquitted Hi-C on this charge as well.

Indeed, the hearing examiner concluded, in an opinion that ran to 62 single spaced pages and 144 numbered paragraphs, that the complaint was altogether groundless: The charges had no merit to begin with. The FTC's counsel appealed to the full commission, which on Oct. 5 delivered itself of another 21 single spaced pages, buttressed by 60 footnotes, affirming Judge Jackson's opinion. Two years and seven months after the last ad had appeared, a complaint was thereupon dismissed. Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones dissented.

Commissioner Jones objected that her colleagues were ignoring or reversing the FTC's established view of the typical consumer as "ignorant, unthinking, and credulous." She found this "discouraging." And there are those of us, viewing this whole undertaking, who would say that her declarative adjective should be applied more broadly.

New math flunks, old is dusted off

Roughly 10 years ago came the dawn of the new math, which was ballyhooed as the last word in teaching. The more familiar method of instilling math in young heads, involving a certain amount of memorization and drill, was ipso facto, obsolete.

Funny how truisms come and go. Today the new math is rapidly being phased out as an experiment that went sour. It is being replaced, of all things, by what one expert calls a "return to basic skills," involving, yes, memorization and drill.

The gild started wearing off the new math in the late 60s, when it was discovered that students were high on theory but low in practical application of mathematical principles. "Test scores were coming back showing that kids couldn't even add a grocery bill, and parents were nearing the ends of their strings," John Jenkin, a math textbook editor for a major publisher, is quoted by the Chicago Daily News as saying.

Another textbook editor points out that where eighth-graders were testing out at 8.8 (eighth grade, eighth month) on math problems in 1963, this year the figure is 7.8—a one grade slippage. So much for a decade's benefit of the new math.

The latest math textbooks are said to combine elements of both the old and the new math, with the stress on the old. No one will say, in so many words, that the new math has been a failure. Modern educators don't like to admit to failure of any kind.

All of this should do one thing—it should make millions of Americans boiling mad at the so-called educational experts who go around merrily leaping from one vogue to another instead of sticking to basic education.

Somehow this band of madmen captured the educational establishment many years ago, and has been playing havoc ever since. It's time they were stopped, before they create a nation of complete idiots.

SMOLDERING BLANKET

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The government persuaded one of President Nixon's Florida neighbors to give up her home, according to a classified account, because she had been "spreading wild tales of what was going on in the presidential compound."

The President's two favorite millionaires, Bebe Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp, joined in the effort to remove the alleged gossip from the fashionable Key Biscayne neighborhood. She is Mrs. Perry O'Neal, a sweet, 70-year-old widow, who assured us she "loved the Nixons" and brought them roses.

She agreed to vacate her home to make room for the President's communications staff, but she didn't want to lease it to the government. Abplanalp quickly coughed up $150,000 to buy the house from her and then he leased it to the government for $18,000 a year.

The Public Buildings Service sent Theodore Sachs from its Atlanta regional office to Key Biscayne to negotiate the deal. He met with Rebozo on Feb. 6, 1969, and afterward submitted their confidential report of their conversation.

"Mr. Rebozo stated that this would not be the ordinary type of negotiation," recounted Sachs. "Mr. Rebozo stated that Mrs. O'Neal, who lived at 478 Bay Lane, was creating a problem for the President and for the Administration by going around the island and spreading wild tales of what was going on in the presidential compound in Key Biscayne.

"Further, since the White House Communications Agency needed space in the compound for the communication operation, it was determined that the leasing of the house at 478 Bay Lane would provide the space required by the agency and would also solve the problem created by Mrs. O'Neal by removing her from the scene."

The widow was distressed over this account of her alleged tattling. "I never did any such thing," she huffed. "That's the worst thing I ever heard of. I was a good neighbor and I carried roses over to her (Mrs. Nixon) personally."

Sachs continued his story: "Mr. Rebozo

Merry-go-round

How Mrs. O'Neal gave up her home further went on to state that since Mrs. O'Neal was not interested in leasing the house, he had contacted a friend of his, Mr. Robert H. Abplanalp of Bronxville, New York, and Mr. Abplanalp had agreed to purchase the O'Neal home as a favor to the President and Mr. Rebozo.

"Negotiations between Mr. Abplanalp, Mr. Rebozo and the O'Neals resulted in a sale of the home at 478 Bay Lane to Mr. Robert Abplanalp and his wife for $150,000."

"Mr. Rebozo stressed the fact that Mr. Abplanalp had purchased the home merely as a favor and did not want to make a profit on it; but since Mr. Abplanalp had taken the money out of a company fund, he wanted a fair net return on his money and a price of $18,000 as an annual rental had been agreed upon."

Abplanalp also objected to signing an agreement that would permit the government to use the house for any purpose it wished. Possibly for this reason, the Secret Service and the White House Communications Agency traded houses. Thus the President's bodyguard wound up replacing the talkative Mrs. O'Neal and they have a reputation as the most tight-lipped men in government.

REID'S ANNOUNCEMENT: New York's blueblood Rep. Ogden Reid, who turned his back on 115 years of family Republicanism to become a Democrat in 1972, this week will announce his candidacy for governor of the Empire State.

The congressman, grandson of Whitelaw Reid who ran unsuccessfully as GOP vice presidential candidate in 1892, expects to announce first in Buffalo, then on the State House steps in Albany and finally, late the same day, in New York City. He faces a primary contest before the elections in November, 1974.

The national significance of the six-term congressman's race is that the presidential hopes of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller hang on the outcome, whether he runs against Reid or not. Rockefeller hotly opposes him and a Reid victory would show Rockefeller weakness at the polls.

Rockefeller tried to beat Reid in 1972 by helping to finance the congressman's GOP opponent and by lending him three top aides. President Nixon also sought to punish Reid's defection with an unprecedented 11-stop campaign in the district. Reid triumphed, thus further embittering both Nixon and Rockefeller.

What's the use in eternally having to talk about the sidewalks? Why don't you go out and fix 'em up? Do you remember last winter, how you waded through mud up to your knees, cursed the Council in six different directions at once, and swore you would leave the city unless they regulated the sidewalks better? Now look at your sidewalk and see how it is, and it isn't all right, make it so.

The 1974 edition of the Farmers Tax Guide may now be picked up at the Extension Center. This is the annual edition used by farmers who do their own tax work and tax consultants use it in preparing the 1973 returns. There will be a Farm Tax Institute held in Sedalia Dec. 13 to train tax consultants in about 10 counties in this area.

Pork producers

The annual meeting of the Missouri Pork Producers Association will be held Friday and Saturday at the Ramada Inn in Columbia. A real outstanding program is planned and pork producers and their wives will enjoy the program and business meetings of the State Pork Producers. There is a ladies special program on Friday.

Test now

Farmers should carefully consider the kind and amount of fertilizer used. The demand for feed grains and soybeans, along with potential fertilizer shortages makes this a poor time to use too little, or the wrong kind. Take soil samples now to your Extension Center for testing. Sampling now eliminates the need to take samples next winter when soils may be frozen or muddy. Soil testing is a valuable tool in determining the present fertility level of nutrients needed for plant growth. These values along with the pounds of each nutrient removed by the crop can be used to determine the kind and amount of fertilizer to apply.

Give some thought to the crops and yield goals for the next four years. With the aid of the computerized soil test reports, fertilizer and lime recommendations are provided for the yield goal that you set.

Night spraying

Recently conducted research indicates it is better to spray at night than in the afternoon. Agricultural engineers found the period from 12 to 6 p.m. the least desirable time to spray. The probable success of spraying from a drift standpoint diminishes rapidly after 10 a.m. and remains relatively poor until 7 p.m. These results are based on weather data at Columbia during 1946-65.

Seepy areas

Hillside seeps are a common occurrence in some of our area. They are caused by ground water flowing on top of the impervious layer of soil such as clay, hard pan or rock. Seeps may also be caused from water flowing from sand layers. Seeps give the most trouble during the spring and early summer or after extremely wet periods.

The remedy is to install a 4 or 5 inch drain line just above the wet area. The tile should be 2 1/2 to 3 feet deep to prevent damage from farm operations. However, it should be at the same elevation or lower than the surface of the tight soil.

Says highway is threat to St. Louis area

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A proposed interstate highway across northeast Missouri to link Kansas City with Chicago seriously threatens the economic stability of the St. Louis area, which it would bypass, U.S. Rep. William L. Clay, D-Mo., said Sunday in stating his opposition to the plan.

Any highway that would bypass St. Louis, Clay said, would have the effect of forcing major trucking firms to relocate to the biggest city on the route.

"Transportation, especially trucking, is one of the essential cogs in the economic wheel of our community," the St. Louis Democrat said. "But trucks must follow the highway. They have no other alternative."

He noted that the U.S. Department of Transportation is trying to set up guidelines to permit states to finance feasibility studies for 10 interstate highways.

layer. The tile picks up the water before it reaches the surface and carries it to the drain outlet. The seepy area then dries up.

In seepy areas, terraces or drainage ditches seldom do the job. The approximate cost of laying a 4-inch line is 34 cents per foot and 37 cents per foot for 5-inch tile. This includes materials, trenching and backfilling. For many areas the cost of tiling is greater than the value of the land reclaimed, but a spot that stays wet is a nuisance and often worthwhile to eliminate even if expensive. Some seepy areas may best be left for pasture if costs are too great. These areas if seeded to an adapted pasture grass will usually produce a lot of grazing because they are "sub-irrigated."

Beef costs

The day of producing a feeder calf for $100 seems to be done. That is unless we ignore part of the costs. Rising land, interest and cattle prices have for some doubled the cost of production of a calf.

Costs vary from farm to farm, however, whether cropland or poorer land is used, whether free feeds (stalk field and stubble) are available and capital invested are major cost factors to reckon with.

Costs of production shift because of these factors. For example, depreciation per cow could be a greater cost factor in the present state of the cattle cycle than experienced in recent years.

Annual total costs of production per cow for a few years could approach $175.

Winter pasture

For mature, dry, pregnant cows on fescue or orchard grass, no protein is needed. For lactating cows or growing heifers on these pastures, some protein will be needed. The same applies to cattle on stalk fields. Dry, mature cows should need no extra protein; lactating cows and growing heifers do. With either type winter pasture, supplement with salt and minerals, plus vitamin A. Use your available feed wisely by strip grazing pastures or stalk fields. Start the wintering period with mature cows in medium to good condition. Don't let them exceed a 10 to 15 per cent weight loss through calving time.

Graze bred heifers separately so they can be supplemented and avoid more than a 5 per cent weight loss by calving time. Along with this, be sure you have ice free water available all the time, a windbreak of some sort, and a stockpile of roughage for those days when cattle can't graze. Wintering costs are important profit robbers. Get by as cheap as you can without under feeding.

Utilizing stalks

Grain sorghum stalks make good beef cow pasture or also silage after combining the grain, since the leaves and stalks remain green until killed by a hard frost.

Research data on digestive trials indicate that grain sorghum stalks are a good source of energy and a cheap source of roughage for dry mature beef cows. It compares favorably with corn stalks and forage type sorghums. It should be supplemented with protein and minerals to provide a balanced ration. Vitamin A may also need to be needed in the salt.

An acre of corn stalks would furnish about 45 cow days of winter grazing which would be a maintenance ration for mature cows and grazed up to 100 days if supplemented. Six pounds of legume hay fed daily will correct the protein deficiency.

Winter pasture programs for beef cows have centered on tall fescue. The summer growth is either baled (round bales) or stacked, or just allowed to accumulate from early July on. Fescue growth and palatability is greater during the cool season, making more growth in late fall than most grasses. Round bales for winter pastures of tall fescue should be fenced into small units for best utilization.

Males eat more food

WASHINGTON (AP) — In case the housewife didn't know it, the male of the family eats more than the female.

Or so say government chartmakers who plotted the cost of a week's food in October for "Food and Home Notes," a publication of the Agriculture Department's communications office.

The chart shows totals for a young couple of $23.80 under a low-cost plan, $30.40 under moderate costs plan and $37 under a liberal cost plan.

The lowest category is for an elderly couple—$19.50, $23.50 and $30.20. The highest is for a family of four with elementary-school children—$39.90, $51.30 and $62.60.

When the categories are broken down for men and women of different age groups and teen-aged boys and girls, the amounts for males are between $1.60 and $3 more a week than those for females.

Asked why this was so, women who prepare and distribute the charts said, "Men eat more... It always costs more to feed a man."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agricultural Research Service is promoting three synthetic mimics of pyrethrum as killers of insects hitchhiking on aircraft coming into the United States from foreign countries.

In describing recent tests to a Dallas group this week, entomologist William N. Sullivan of ARS said the three synthetics have the same advantages of pyrethrum, one of nature's safest and most effective insecticides, in that they are "effective... without undesirable effects on warm-blooded animals, when properly used."

They also can be manufactured in any quantity, he said, and do not have to be imported—like pyrethrum—at a rate dependent on crop conditions. The natural insecticide is derived from a species of chrysanthemum grown in Africa.

Applied as gas-propelled aerosols in test flights, Sullivan said, the synthetics most effectively killed house flies, Southern house mosquitoes and Caribbean fruit flies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recycling and the need for more energy are the reasons behind a $59,610 grant announced at the end of last week for a year's study of manure as a fuel source, an Agriculture Department spokesman said.

The study is to be conducted at Tennessee State University in Nashville.

Conversion of the animal manure and crop clippings into methane—a potential replacement for natural gas or gasoline—and sludge is expected to yield information on the best mixtures and whether the methods are practical, the spokesman said.

Energy crisis is not only matter for worry

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Meanwhile, the world goes on. While any businessman worth the stockholders' trust or the bank's credit is worrying about high prices and low energy reserves, there are still other matters to think about.

Bruce Henderson of the Boston Consulting Group, an incisive thinker who loves to kick away the crutches that comfortably support conventional thinking, is irritated by the new American giveaway.

For a grand total of about $2.5 billion, says Henderson, Japan bought all the technology of the Western world. That amount, he adds, is less than 10 per cent of U.S. spending for research and development in a single year.

"As a result of this giveaway," he continues, "Japan was able to become the most formidable international competitor in a few brief years." And now, he concludes, we are about to do it all over again.

The Trade Reform Act of 1973, now being considered by the House Ways and Means Committee, would license all U.S. technology to Russia. At the same time, Henderson notes:

"We are also not attempting to obtain recognition of U.S. patents. Our antitrust laws further limit our ability to compete. The export-import bank finances the growth of competition."

Failure to understand the importance of technology, he concludes, has caused the United States to destroy its own trade position and undermine its monetary system.

The National Chamber of Commerce remains concerned about the proliferation of government employees.

At the turn of the century, it notes in its "Washington Report," there were 26 persons employed in the private sector for every one employed by the government.

Since then, however, government employment has grown about five times faster than private employment. In 1972 there were only 5.1 persons employed in private enterprise for every civilian employee of government.

It concludes: "If this trend continues unabated, by the beginning of the next century... for every worker in the private sector there will be one in the public sector."

One of the few bright spots in the darkening economy is the trend of savings. Savings and loan associations are regaining some of the funds that disappeared into higher yielding investments during the summer.

During October, the U.S. League of Savings Associations reports, deposits at the nation's savings and loan association shot up some $1.3 billion. And indications are that the trend continued into November.

If savers continue to deposit money in their savings accounts it could very well mean that home buyers early in 1974 will find it a lot easier to obtain a mortgage — and at more acceptable terms.

Have you ever wondered how your rent money is spent? The Institute of Real Estate Management has just produced figures on the net operating income and expenses of apartment houses. As expected, it shows big rent increases.

The annual income per room in elevator buildings rose last year to $356.73, an 8.8 per cent jump, the institute reports. Small low-rise units averaged $196.41, large low-risers $236.09, and garden units $228.55.

And this is where it went: Real estate taxes cost $77.85 per room per year; utilities, excluding heating and fuel, cost $37; maintenance and repairs added $26.60 to costs; and pay-rolls cost $42.51.

For some reason the institute didn't report on heating and fuel costs, a category that could be the most critical element in apartment house operations this coming year.

Bengals hand Vikes first shutout since '62, 27-0

By HOWARD SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer
"This team is a disgrace," said Minnesota defensive end Carl Eller after Sunday's loss by the Vikings to Cincinnati. "I think the National Football League should fine this club."

Eller and the Vikings aren't accustomed to losing, much less losing big, but they ran into an aroused Bengal team and came away with a 27-0 defeat — the Vikings' worst loss since 1968. It was also the first time Minnesota has been shut out since 1962.

Essex Johnson raced 40 yards for one Cincinnati touchdown and Lamar Parrish went 23 yards with a fumble recovery for another. Ken Anderson hit on 12 of 17 passes for 105 yards and a TD.

The victory kept the Bengals in the thick of the AFC Central Division chase. Cincinnati and Cleveland are a half-game behind Pittsburgh right now but the Steelers have to play Miami tonight. Should the Steelers lose, all three clubs would be tied with just two games left in the regular campaign.

The Browns stayed alive with a come-from-behind 20-20 draw with Kansas City.

In other games, Los Angeles clinched the NFC West with a 26-0 romp over Chicago. Buffalo stunned Atlanta 17-6. Washington rallied past New York 27-24. Dallas dumped Denver 22-10. Oakland defeated Houston 17-6. New England downed San Diego 30-14. The New York Jets held off Baltimore 20-17. Detroit tripped St. Louis 20-16. Green Bay stopped New Orleans 30-10 and San Francisco topped Philadelphia 38-28.

Rams 26, Bears 0
Larry McCutcheon rushed for 152 yards on 24 carries and Davis Ray Booteed field goals of 30, 16, 39 and 26 yards as Los Angeles ran its record to 10-2. The Ram defense manhandled Chicago's modest offense, allowing the Bears past midfield just once.

Bills 17, Falcons 6
O. J. Simpson made it into the record books with his ninth 100-yard rushing game of the season as Buffalo stopped Atlanta's winning streak at seven games. Simpson gained 137 yards to up his total for the season to 1,587. He needs just 276 yards in his two final games to break Jim Brown's record of 1,863 for a single season.

Redskins 27, Giants 24
Sonny Jurgensen, subbing for the injured Bill Kilmer, completed 11 straight passes in the fourth period to lead Washington on two long scoring drives. Larry Brown scored all three Redskin TDs, including the game-winner with less than four minutes left on a 16-yard pass from Jurgensen.

Cowboys 22, Broncos 10
Roger Staubach was dumped five times by the Denver defense but got up often enough to throw touchdown passes of six and 27 yards to tight end Jean Fugett. The loss dropped the Broncos out of first place in the AFC West.

Raiders 17, Oilers 6
Linebacker Phil Villapiano made the big play for Oakland, picking off a fumble by Lewis Jolley at the Raiders' one-yard line and racing 52 yards. Oakland scored on a two-yard run by Marv Hubbard six plays later and the Oilers, 1-11, never recovered.

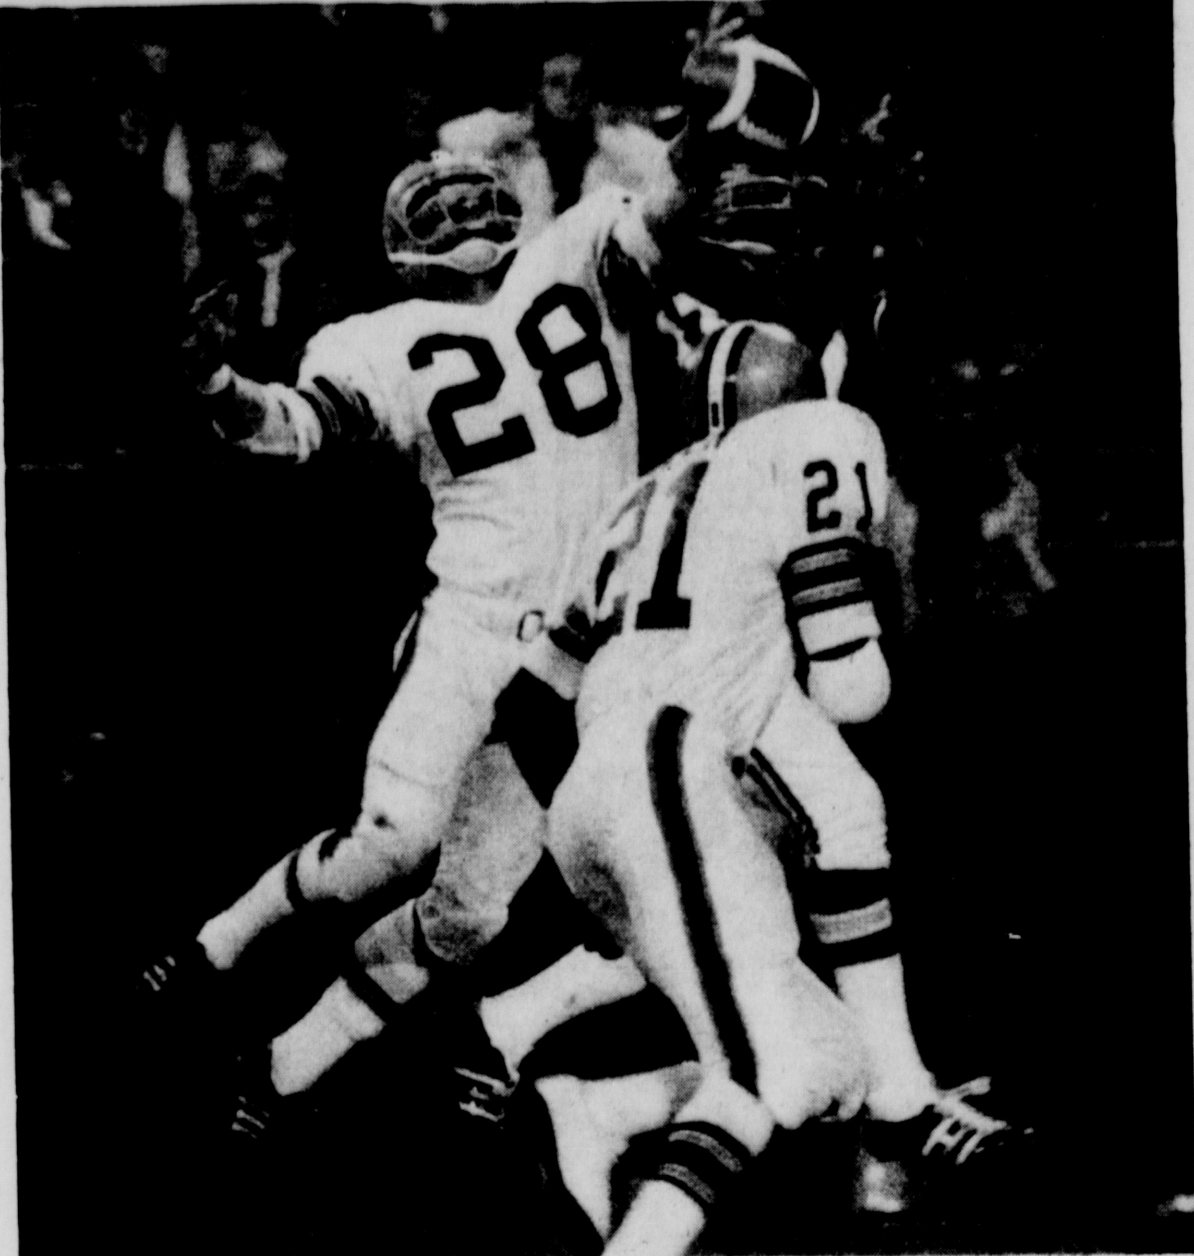

Patriots 30, Chargers 14
Mark Herron got New England rolling with a 92-yard kick-off return and big Jim Plunkett did the rest. Plunkett scored two touchdowns on short runs and passed to Randy Vataha from 14 yards out for a third. It was the Pats' third straight triumph.

Jets 20, Colts 17
Safety Phil Wise ran 80 yards with a fumble recovery for one score and Joe Namath passed 15 yards to Emerson Boozer for another as New York built a 17-0 lead after three periods, and then held off a furious Baltimore closing rush.

Packers 30, Saints 10
Green Bay picked off four New Orleans passes and returned two of them for touchdowns, safety Al Matthews racing 58 yards and linebacker Jim Carter going 42 yards. Quarterback Jerry Tagge ran 41 yards for another Packer TD.

49ers 38, Eagles 28
Fullback Ken Willard rushed for 117 yards and quarterback Steve Spurrier scored twice from the one for San Francisco. The 49ers built a 28-0 lead at the half and then held off a late Philadelphia rally.

Last gasp

Cleveland Browns' Ben Davis (28) breaks up a pass intended for Kansas City's Elmo Wright with only 10 seconds to go in Sunday's game in Arrowhead Stadium. Van Green moves in to help Davis on the play. The Chiefs, leading 20-6 in the fourth quarter, had to settle for a 20-20 tie after the Browns came up with two late-game TD's. (UPI)

Third straight championship loss

Third time no charm for SFCC

The third time wasn't the charm for the State Fair Community College Roadrunners Saturday night in the championship game of the Blue Dragon Doubleheader in Hutchinson, Kan.

For the third straight week, the Roadrunners were playing for a tournament championship. And for the third straight week, the outcome didn't go their way, as SFCC dropped its third straight Saturday night tournament championship decision to host Hutchinson, Kan., 67-59. A week ago, the Roadrunners were blasted by Mineral Area in the finals of the Mineral Area Classic in Flat River, Mo. Two weeks ago in the championship game of their own tourney, State Fair lost to Crowder College of Neosho, Mo. in overtime.

"The game was decided in the first five or six minutes of the opening half," said Bill Barton, who watched his club slip to 4-3 on the year with Saturday's loss.

"We got behind eight points at the outset and had to play catch-up all the way...we couldn't get a consistent offensive attack going all night...it seemed like when we scored, they scored...when they missed, we missed," Barton continued.

Turnovers played a big part in the game. In the first half alone, the Roadrunners turned the ball over nine times. In the second half SFCC committed six turnovers.

State Fair also missed the front end of some key one-and-one situations as well in the first half. "We had a lot of chances, but we couldn't cash in on

"Although we didn't play well, they did a great job defensively. In fact, Hutchinson played the toughest defense we've faced all year," Barton added.

Charles Shell, who shared scoring honors with Colles Webb in Friday night's opening-round victory over Nebraska Southern (Fairbury) with 23 points, paced the Roadrunners again in the scoring column with 16 points.

State Fair winds up its current five-game road trip Tuesday night in Kansas City in a clash with arch rival Penn Valley.

Mistake lifts St. Louis team into Class C lead

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Two new team leaders emerged Sunday as the 42nd annual Missouri Women's Bowling Association Tournament continued here.

A mistake involving the Mistakes, a St. Louis team, accounted for one of the changes. Tournament officials said Betty Kennedy of the Mistakes was listed with a 129 average, but a recheck showed that figure belonged to another Betty Kennedy in the giant field for his event that runs through the weekend of Dec. 16. The Mistakes' Betty Kennedy should have been credited with an average of 177. The difference added a 9-pin per-game handicap to the Mistakes' score and boosted the St. Louis team to a 3,024 total in Class C. Foster's Foundation of Oronogo is now second at 2,998.

Cuba Fish Farm of Cuba pounded out a 3,067 series Sunday and took the Class B lead by 62 pins over L&L Fashions of Farmington. The Class A leader is George Mayer Realty of St. Louis, with a 3,061 total.

Mosie Caldwell and Laura Baskett of St. Louis moved atop the Class A doubles Sunday with a score of 1,285. Margie Rainey and Shirley Harden of Nevada lead Class B doubles with a 1,328 pinfall. In Class C the Blue Springs twosome of Rowena Cox and Sharon Husley is tops with a 1,301.

The singles leaders are Melba Elley of Fulton, 691 in Class A; Betty Harkey of Troy, 720 in Class B; and Paula Woolery of Kansas City, 692 in Class C.

Two of North Carolina's three varsity fullbacks come from Long Island. They are Ed Lamons of West Islip and Brian Smith of Merrick.

Chiefs, Browns tie, 20-20

KC blows 14-point lead to Cleveland

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are rapidly gaining a reputation as the best comeback team in the National Football League.

The Browns, who a week ago beat Pittsburgh with a last-ditch rally, came up with two late long-range touchdown plays Sunday for a 20-20 tie with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Neither coach, Hank Stram of the Chiefs nor Nick Skorich of the Browns, was satisfied with the deadlock.

"It's very discouraging but we are still one-half game out of first place," said Stram, referring to Kansas City's position in the American Conference West Division. "And, regardless of how this one turned out, we still had to beat Oakland next week."

Stram added the tie "can't have any psychological effect. It just boils down to next week. We have to be mentally tough enough, accept the challenge, beat it and win in Oakland."

Skorich said the Browns "were looking to win" but his big concern after the game was tonight's battle between Pittsburgh and the Dolphins at Miami.

Cleveland, 7-3-2, trails Pittsburgh by one-half game in the AFC's Central Division and, Skorich noted, "a loss by Pittsburgh would mean a three-way tie. We'll just have to wait and see."

Rookie Greg Pruitt, as last week against the Steelers, was the Cleveland player who put the Browns back in business against the Chiefs. With the Browns behind 20-6, Pruitt rambled 65 yards on a trap action draw play with five minutes, 43 seconds left.

Three minutes later, Mike Phipps hit Milt Morin with a 51-yard touchdown pass. Don Crockett, who had kicked field goals of 44 and 28 yards, converted after both touchdowns.

The Chiefs, 6-4-2, moved 76 yards on 11 plays late in the first quarter for their initial touchdown, scored on Mike Livingston's 11-yard pass to Elmo Wright. They didn't make their second TD until 6:43 remained when Ed Podolak ran two yards after setting up the score with a 48-yard punt return.

Between those two touchdowns, Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 15 and 13 yards.

Even after the Browns tied it, the Chiefs seemed on the brink of winning. Phipps threw a pass that hit Pruitt's heel and bounced high in the air. Emmitt Thomas grabbed the ball for the Chiefs and returned it to the Cleveland 35 with 59 seconds to go. However, Thomas fumbled, and John DeMarie recovered for the Browns.

Referee Jack Reader said it was a personal foul when Pruitt's foot hit the ball but that the Chiefs declined the penalty, forcing the Browns to punt.

"There was a lot of confusion on what the call would be," said Stram, "but they were right."

The conference will also continue to finance 57 grants-in-aid at the current financial level.

Commissioner Bill George of Richmond also said the MIAA will increase the size of football squads to 45 for home and away conference games and to 55 for home nonconference games.

In other action, the conference moved to hold its 1974 indoor track meet at the University of Missouri's Hearnes Center in Columbia; continue the conference basketball tournament at Southwest Missouri State through 1976 and continue to hold the conference golf tournament in the St. Louis area for the next two years.

Maryland almost pulled off the unimaginable in college basketball — beating UCLA in Pauley Pavilion. And after losing 65-64, the Terrapins were still proud and hungry for more.

"We were privileged to come that close to UCLA on its home court," said Maryland's Tom McMillen, "and we hope to play them again somewhere."

Maryland's performance Saturday night came within four seconds of giving Terp Coach Lefty Driesell what he said he wanted more than a national championship — to end the top-ranked Bruins' unbeaten streak at 76 and be only the second team in seven years to win on the Bruins' home court. Southern California has achieved the feat twice.

Despite 18 points and 27 rebounds by center Bill Walton, their Player of the Year, the Bruins were able to halt a Maryland second-half charge only when Dave Meyers stole the ball from John Lucas with four seconds remaining to preserve UCLA's 77-game victory streak.

Len Elmore led Maryland with 19 points.

The fourth-ranked Terrapins were not the only Top 20 team disappointed during the first opening weekend for most teams.

Cincinnati defeated ninth-ranked Louisville 65-58; Arizona, No. 15, after an opening victory, lost to Southern California 100-76; and Jerry Tarkanian's new home-court debut was spoiled when Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 19, lost to Texas Tech 82-76.

Second-ranked North Carolina State, scheduled to meet UCLA Dec. 15, opened its season by waltzing over Athletics in Action 119-82 in an exhibition game, third-ranked Indiana beat The Citadel 74-55, No. 5 North Carolina stopped No. 14 Houston 97-74, Marquette, No. 7, defeated St. John's, Minn., 91-45, No. 8 Notre Dame leveled Valparaiso 112-62 and 10th-ranked Kentucky beat Miami of Ohio 81-68.

Long Beach State, No. 12, beat Puget Sound 84-55, Kansas State, No. 13, downed Utah 87-82, No. 17 Jacksonville rebounded from an opening loss in the IPTAY Tournament to defeat Auburn 90-78 and Memphis State, No. 20, whipped Wisconsin-Milwaukee 89-68.

Winter meetings underway in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Denny McLain, Ted Uhlaender, Elrod Hendricks and Wade Blasingame were among the better-known names available for a $25,000 price tag at baseball's annual winter draft Monday.

The 24 major league teams officially opened this year's winter meetings with their selection of minor league talent.

McLain, the one-time 31-game winner for the Detroit Tigers, was one of thousands of players available for the standard fee.

So were Uhlaender, an outfielder with nine years of big league experience; Hendricks, a catcher who spent most of his career with the Baltimore Orioles; and Blasingame, a well-traveled southpaw who once won 16 games for the old Milwaukee Braves.

McLain and Uhlaender were available from the roster of the Iowa team in the American Association; Hendricks from Rochester of the International League and Blasingame from Hawaii in the Pacific Coast League.

The morning draft raised the curtain on a week of busy activity.

In the next five days, executives from the major and minor leagues will carry on official business with the style of a big corporation.

Rule changes will be voted, the major one being the extension of inter-league trading to include the 30 days from May 15 in addition to the current period. Inter-league trades now are being carried on from five days after the World Series to the end of the winter meetings.

Two recent controversial developments have added spice to these meetings — the sale of the San Diego Padres and the managerial situations in the New York Yankee, Oakland A's and Detroit Tiger organizations.

A group headed by Marjorie Everett will be seeking formal approval from the National League to buy the Padres and keep them in San Diego. But it's reported that National League owners will turn down the sale.

Also taking the spotlight this week will be a formal hearing between the Yankees and Detroit Tigers and an informal one between the Yankees and A's in an attempt to resolve their confused managerial situations.

Ralph Houk left New York to manage the Tigers and Dick Williams resigned from the A's, presumably to join the Yankees. But the situation was muddled when Oakland owner Charles O. Finley stepped in and refused to let Williams go to New York unless he received "adequate compensation." Then the Yankees picked up Finley's lead and said Houk couldn't manage Detroit unless they got something in return from the Tigers. Both managers resigned while under contract.

American League President Joe Cronin is expected to rule in both cases this Wednesday at the hearings.

Detroit Lions ride big plays to trip Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals were able to distract the Detroit Lions' Bill Munson in their game Sunday but, alas, not enough.

Munson, calling on the experience of his 10 National Football League seasons, twice turned adversity into adventure and propelled the Lions to a 20-16 triumph.

Hounded by a pass rush, the blond Munson scrambled to his right and pegged 43 yards to wide receiver Earl McCullough in the second quarter.

Two quarters later, with the Cardinals again in hot pursuit, the 32-year-old quarterback found tight end Charlie Sanders for a 54-yard gain.

Both plays led to touchdowns and the Lions, again snapping back after a bad defeat, were able to hold out against a late Cardinals field goal.

"Their secondary covered our guys pretty good," commented Munson, who aside from the long gains completed 12 of 22 passes for 114 yards.

"I scrambled because of the coverage they had," the 6-foot-2 aerialist explained, "not because our pass protection was bad."

Detroit, booting its record in the NFL's National Conference Central to 5-6-1, had fallen behind 7-3 before Munson's arm struck.

The fleet McCullough maneuvered behind the Cardinals' secondary and was flagged down at the one preceding Steve Owens' plunge into the end zone.

In the fourth quarter, after St. Louis forged a 13p13 tie, Munson again bounced out of his pocket and hit all-pro Sanders at midfield.

Sanders snared the ball in the grasp of Cardinals safety Jim Tolbert but wrestled free and

Tigers 91, Leeton 53

LEETON — The Green Ridge Tigers continue to roll on a 91-53 shelling over Leeton to ruin the latter's courtwarming celebration here Friday night.

Green Ridge, who has lost only one game, placed four players in double figures. Mike Profit led the way with 19 followed by Joe Purchase's 17; Kelly Harding had 14 and pivotman John Dove followed with 12.

The two teams fought a nip-and-tuck battle in the first period with the Kaysinger Tigers inching ahead 19-18.

In the second period the Tigers gradually pulled away to a seven point lead at the intermission, 39-32.

The last half all belonged to the Tigers as they rolled up 52 points.

Profit and Dove controlled the boards and guards Harding and Purchase, both juniors, set the tempo in the backcourt.

Green Ridge's overall record now stands at 6-1; the Tigers are off to their best start in years under second-year coach Larry Barb.

The Tigers also copped the junior varsity match-up 42-40 for a clean sweep of the night's activities.

Scoring
Green Ridge (91) — Profit 19, Purchase 17, Harding 14, Dove 12, Ream 8, Risner 8, Scotten 6, Rupe 6, Curtis 1.
Leeton (53) — Ammons 19, Bailey 11, Bancroft 10, Stockton 6, Parker 3, Roberts 2, Svils 2.

lumbered all the way to the St. Louis nine.

Owens bucked the left side for a yard and Altie Taylor gained three before Munson once more took a second look and passed five yards to Sanders in the end zone.

"I was covered both ways," acknowledged Sanders, who had time to run a second route. "Then I came back to the outside and dove."

St. Louis, falling to 3-8-1 in the NFC East, was on top midway the second period via Terry Metcalf's two-yard touchdown run but stalled when Jim Hart departed in the third quarter.

"My shoulder was on fire. I couldn't raise my arm," said the Cards quarterback, who was injured when hit by hulking Herb Orvis.

Jim Otis' 78 yards on 10 carries headed a crisp ground assault by the Cards, whose last hope died when Mike Lucci punted Gary Keithley's pass at the Detroit 17 with a minute left.

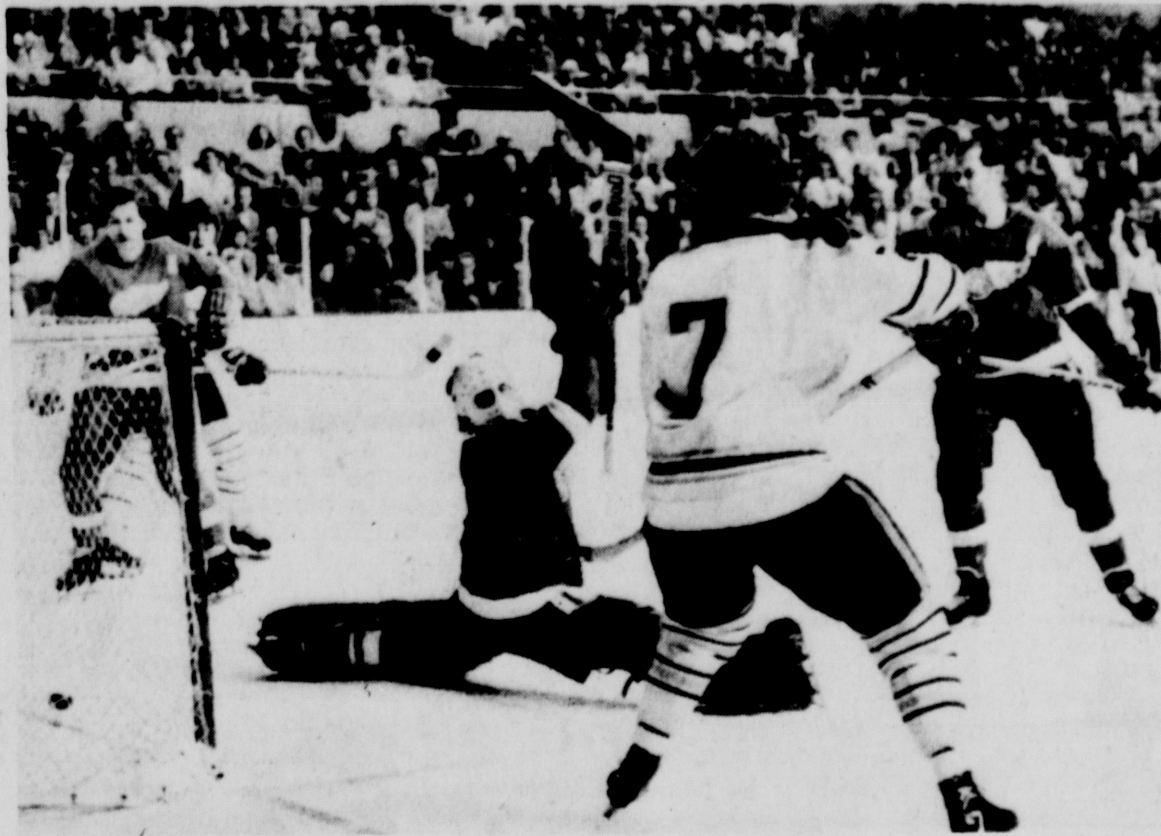

Crowder routs Whiteman AFB

WHITEMAN, AFB — Crowder College of Neosho, Mo., rebounded from a Thursday night loss to Trenton here Friday and upended Whiteman Air Force Base, 103-80.

Robert Dillard, a Pennsylvania product, was nearly a one-man show for the Roughriders with 47 points. Paul Mayfield led the airmen with 20.

Tuesday night, WAFB will take on the Central Missouri State University junior varsity in a preliminary game at the CMSU, MU-St. Louis collegiate clash.

Friday and Saturday, Whiteman will host Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base. Friday's game will start at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday the teams will tangle again at 2 p.m.

KU, 'Cats face tough foes

Five Big 8 cage clubs go after second wins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas State, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Nebraska go after their second basketball victories in as many outings tonight. All play at home.

Thirteenth-ranked Kansas State, only Big Eight Conference club among the top 20, and Kansas seemingly have the toughest assignments.

The Wildcats battle Southern Methodist, the only team able to beat a Big Eight club in opening games, and Kansas is host to tough Kentucky.

Colorado entertains Arizona. Oklahoma tangles with Jacksonville, and Nebraska faces Minnesota Duluth.

The Wildcats, the league's defending champions, started their campaign Saturday night by whipping Utah 87-82. Kansas broke loose in the second half and pounded Murray, Ky., State 103-71. Colorado celebrated its opening with a 65-61 triumph over Air Force. Oklahoma spanked Oklahoma City University 87-68 in a Friday night clash.

Nebraska turned back Wyoming 70-62. Iowa State beat Western Illinois 84-81 in overtime, and Missouri was a 77-73 victim of SMU in other Saturday night action. Oklahoma State began its campaign Friday night with a 72-54 decision over Tulsa.

Larry Williams made 20 points and Lon Kruger 15 in K-State's contest as the Wildcats registered their 23rd consecutive home court victory.

Kansas could shoot its way into a 42-39 halftime edge but Norm Cook, Roger Morningstar and Dale Greenlee found the range often very quickly after the rest to bury Murray. Cook contributed 21 points. Greenlee 19 and Morningstar 16.

Scott Wedman, with 21 points and 12 rebounds, fired Colorado to its win over Air Force in a game in which neither team led by more than four points. Nebraska rolled past Wyoming behind Jerry Fort's 24-point assault and led by 22 points at stages of the second half.

Iowa State came up with a sophomore, Hercule Ivy, who dropped in 28 points but it took a layup by Wes Harris in the overtime stanza to put the Cyclones ahead for keeps.

Missouri made too many mistakes in the last minutes against SMU. The Tigers, young and inexperienced, led in the last nine minutes but faded thereafter. Missouri's Gary Link canned 21 points and Al Eberhard 18.

Warsaw (98) — Steffans 33, T. Hedrick 28, Allen 13, Kinkead 12, Noland 4, Henderson 4, McDonald 2, Bowly 2.

Tiger grapplers hold exhibition

The Smith-Cotton wrestling team, victorious in its season opener Thursday over Santa Fe High School in Alma, will hold an intra-squad match Tuesday night in the Smith-Cotton Fine Arts and Physical Education Building.

The opening match is scheduled to get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Following Tuesday's exhibition matches, S-C will be Thursday, when Versailles visits here. That meet is scheduled to get underway at 6:30 p.m. also.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "For many years George Coffin of Waltham, Mass., has been collecting and writing about interesting bridge hands. His newest compendium, entitled 'Bridge, Perfect Plays and Match Point Ways' includes some old timers and very new ones."

Jim: "Here is a simple one called 'The power of the pop up play'. Just look at the West and North hands and the bidding. We'll give you a clue to the proper play. You decide to open a heart and not your singleton ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "That is quite a clue because we feel that the ace of diamonds lead would almost surely be the best opening. Anyway you do open the eight of hearts and your partner proceeds to cash three heart tricks while South follows suit. You have to discard on the third heart. What discard do you make?"

Jim: "There is one and just one discard that will guarantee defeat of the contract. Pop up with your ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "This sensational discard will get your partner to lead a diamond. If South ruffs with the nine you will score your ten spot of trumps immediately. If he ruffs with a high trump you will collect the setting trick with it later on. Either way you get a plus score."

Vote on GM
is favorable

ST. LOUIS (AP)—United Auto Workers Local 25 at the Chevrolet assembly plant here voted Sunday to accept a national contract with General Motors.

A spokesman for the local said about 1,000 members of the 8,000-member union attended the ratification meeting and approved the recently negotiated pact by 81 per cent.

A local agreement between the Big Three automaker and the union must still be negotiated, he said. Voting on the national pact, which covers some 420,000 hourly workers, began last week and is expected to be completed by Dec. 9.

Last week, several leaders of Local 25 criticized union officials for setting the ratification session for early in the morning, charging that it was an attempt to push through the contract with only a fraction of the local voting. They based the claim on the fact that many of the workers would not attend the meeting because they worked late shifts on Saturday night.

The three-year agreement calls for 23-cent to 35-cent hourly wage hikes over the first year plus an 11-cent to 12-cent cost-of-living increase per hour.

November food prices increase

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

An Associated Press market-basket survey shows that prices went up in November. There were warnings of more problems ahead.

The AP surveyed the price of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1 and has rechecked at the beginning of each month.

The new survey was bad news for consumers hoping for an end-of-the-year break on the family grocery bill. It showed that prices, which went down slightly in October, went right up again in November.

In addition, government and industry spokesmen warn that if farmers don't get enough fuel, there could be more price hikes ahead.

The Dec. 1 survey showed the total market-basket bill went up during November in 9 of the 13 cities checked. Increases averaged three per cent. The bill went down in the other four cities, dropping an average of two per cent.

During October, the market-basket bill had declined in 9 of the 13 cities checked, down an average of two per cent, and went up in four cities, rising an average of three per cent.

A comparison of March 1 and Dec. 1 prices showed the market-basket bill was up in every city over the nine-month period. Increases ranged from two per cent in Atlanta, Ga., to 17 per cent in Providence, R.I., and averaged 10 per cent.

Eggs, which soared to all-time records in early August after controls were lifted and then declined because of consumer resistance, started rising again.

The price of a dozen, medium white eggs was up in 12 of 13 cities checked during November. Increases ranged from four per cent in Boston, where eggs went from 84 to 87 cents a dozen, to 23 per cent in Miami, where the price tag went from 69 to 85 cents. The price stayed the same in the 13th city, New York. The only encouraging sign was that prices generally remained below the dollar-a-dozen level reached in mid-August.

The fuel shortage, meanwhile, compounded the price problem. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said recently that unless farmers get the fuel they need, prices will be higher next year. He said that farm fuel needs may increase by more than three per cent next year, and government officials already have said the United States faces an over-all energy deficit of 17 per cent in 1974.

The AP survey covered Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle, Wash.

Eagleton blasts current energy-saving program

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Nixon Administration's current energy-saving program is "literally a half-way measure" and the United States, especially the Midwest, faces an ominous economic future unless a rationing system is set up now. Sen. Thomas Eagleton said in a statement released here Sunday.

President Nixon's plan "is expected to take care of only 10 per cent of the shortage" and some experts predict this country will fall more than 20 per cent short of its fuel needs this winter, the Missouri Democrat said.

"No longer can we talk about fuel problems in terms of inconvenience to motorists. Today the very economic and social well-being of this nation is on the line," he said.

"To continue to stumble along with halfway measures or to toy with unconscionable notions of letting price alone determine who gets what fuels could plunge this country into the most serious crisis it has ever faced," Eagleton warned.

The country must "begin now to establish priorities and do what is necessary to assure those priorities are met," he said.

The senator is scheduled to speak on the energy problem

South Korea shakeup is reported

SEOUL (AP)—President Chung Hee Park ousted his controversial intelligence chief Monday and replaced half his cabinet.

An end to student unrest, resumption of the unification talks with North Korea, and mending of tattered relations with Japan appeared to be the goals of the shakeup.

Justice Minister Shin Jik-soo replaced Lee Hu-rak as head of the powerful Korean Central Intelligence Agency, the KCIA.

Park kept Premier Kim Jong-pil in the reshuffle, but 10 other cabinet posts changed hands, including the ministries of foreign affairs, home affairs and national defense.

Lee was one of the chief targets of the student protests, not only for infiltrating his agents into the campuses but also because his agency is believed to have been responsible for the August kidnapping of popular opposition leader Kim Dae-jung from Tokyo.

The kidnapping brought relations with Japan close to the breaking point and sent the South Korean premier to Tokyo with a personal apology to Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka for violating Japanese sovereignty.

Also because of the abduction, North Korea declared Lee unacceptable as one of the negotiators in new unification talks.

Despite the shakeup, some 2,500 Seoul students demonstrated today, continuing a two-month campaign for restoration of freedoms and the release of jailed student leaders. For the first time, some 500 demonstrators marched in front of the National Assembly. Riot police dispersed them.

Granite Lodge No. 272 A.F. & A.M. will meet in special communication Monday, Dec. 3rd, at 7:00 P.M. Masonic Temple, Broadway and Missouri. Work in the third degree. Visiting brethren always welcome.
